January - March 2025

Investing in local communities has the power to drive meaningful change. At RWE, we are setting the standard by empowering communities across the UK through funding initiatives made possible by our renewable energy projects.

Meliden Football Club

“This investment means everything to the players, coaches, and supporters who call Meliden FC home. It’s about more than just a new field—it’s about pride, opportunity, and building a stronger community.”

A £25,000 grant from the Gwynt y Môr Wind Farm Community Fund is helping to transform the pitch at Meliden Football Club.

The funding is supporting a full pitch renovation and installation of a new drainage system, creating a state-of-the-art facility that will enhance sporting experiences and increase participation across the community.

The project involves removing the existing pitch and outdated drainage system, followed by the installation of a modern, high-performance drainage solution.

The area will then be backfilled with subsoil, topped with fresh topsoil, and reseeded to create an excellent new playing surface. The club will also receive new maintenance equipment to ensure the pitch remains in top condition throughout the year.

Case Study

1Compass

“The centre has become a safe space for my son where he can be himself and have fun with friends whilst learning new things without the worry of not fitting in. With the centre being so close to home, it has really encouraged independence for him, getting there and back without an adult and being involved in making decisions to benefit our community, the difference in his confidence since joining has been amazing to watch.”

Serving some of North Wales’s most disadvantaged communities, 1Compass is committed to helping young people build resilience and brighter futures through tailored support, skills development, and guidance.

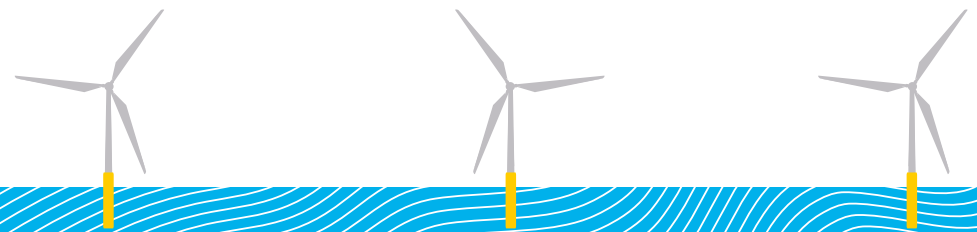

A grant of over £24,000 from the Gwynt y Môr Wind Farm Community Fund has enabled the organisation to recruit an additional youth worker.

This allows 1Compass to run regular, year-round sessions for its three core youth groups, focusing on confidence, communication, positive social skills, family relationships, school attendance, and reducing anti-social behaviour.

The extra capacity also means the charity can expand its one-to-one home visit programme, supporting more young people not in education, training or employment.

This helps bridge the gap between isolated home environments and youth group participation—creating a more connected and supported journey, led by professional youth workers.
